

OSCARS BEHIND THE SCENES

InStyle

CELEBRITY • LIFESTYLE • ARTS

Clothes You'll Love

87 Pages of the Season's Prettiest Picks!

Update Your Hair

Perfect Styles For Every Face

BAGS!

115 Fresh Finds

Spring Makeup

Best New Colors

Getting Gorgeous

Your Head-to-Toe Guide

Uma Thurman
"This has been a really intense year."

partyguide

last-minute oscar party

with Jeffrey Marder

MENU

DRINK
liquid legend

MORE DISCOVERIES
spring rolls, walrus pretzels, steamed pork dumplings, pea sticks, water wrap

SUPPER
sharing with you peas, cashew chicken, vegetable lo mein, spicy string beans

DESSERT
brownies, cookies, rice pudding with nut fruit, candied ginger and scented pineapples

Go ahead and skip the fuss of an elaborate Oscar viewing party, especially because this year the awards air earlier on television. Instead, Jeffrey Marder of Fine Fare in L.A. (who orchestrated Courtney Cox and David Aronoff's nuptials and Cameron Diaz's sixth birthday bash) offers tips for a well-served but not over-the-top Chinese take-out feast. You can do it all in advance, so you'll have time to relax and focus on your own and super-sweetie's. —Bibi Lambert